One of the Union Station gatemen tells a unique story of a kissing episode, A wealthy, stylishly dressed lady from a southern Missouri town repaired to the station to take her train for home. Awaiting her there was an old colored woman, one of the ante-bellum aunties who used to take care of her master's children. She was this old lady's nurse.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 25.—Thom as J. He declared there had been entirely too much discussion as to leaders and counseled the delegates to remember that they were assembled not for the purpose of advancing the interests of any man or faction but to nominate a state ticket.

The report of the credentials committee was then read. It showed the following St. Louis delegations entitled to seats:

Fifteenth ward—Delegation headed by anti-Slinger delegation, headed by Geo. B. Reinstedler, and Twenty-second ward delegation, headed by Nathan Frank.

"No one has any right to prohibit you from kissing your wife, and even if you kiss some other man's wife here we are not supposed to know that fact.

Then there are some foreigners or men of foreign extraction who always kiss. The Italians are notable in this respect. Men from Italy kiss each other with as much apparent zest as the lovesick youth kisses his sweetheart.

We cannot prohibit kissing here if both the kissed and the kisser like the process. Nor can we stop fligtations when both the man and woman are willing. The unequivocal indorsement of Roosevelt for President in 1904 was greeted with wild applause, the delegates rising from their seats and cheering enthusiastically. Hats and handkerchiefs were tossed about, and for five minutes the ovation to the man whom Congressman Joy metaphorically designated as the "little Rough Rider of the White House" was overwhelming.

At the urgent request of many delegates, Chairman Frank re-read the paragraph approving President Roosevelt and his administration.

There was no indorsement of Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock in the report of the platform committee, but a minority of the committee presented the following: "We cordially endorse the administration of the department of the interior presided over by Missouri's honored son, Ethan Alian Hitchcock, under whose control that important department of the people's government has been distinguished by impartial justice, respect for law and intelligent regard for the interest of the entire people."

Considering all circumstances, his majesty may be said to be progressing satisfactorily.

BARLOW, TREVES.

LAKING,

BULLETINS BRING LITTLE HOPE OF KING'S RECOVERY.

Anxious suspense over the condition of King Edawrd VII shared as is evidence by shoals of telegrams from abroad by the whole civilized world, hardly will be much ssened by the bulletin issued by the attending physicians at 10:30 this morning.

Karlier unofficial reports had been more favorable than the official medical pro uncement. They spoke of the King as having passed a good night with peaceful est, and the announcement of his majesty's restlessness and lack of sleep are regarded by the general public as by no means reassuring, although court officials pro fess satisfaction. The absence of all mention of the patient's temperature causes com ment, although, probably, the statement that up to the present, "No untoward symptoms presented themselves," is intended to indicate that there has been no dangerou rise in temperature.

In medical circles the opinion is expressed that, in phrase just quoted, the surgeor are saying all they possibly can. In fact, the whole meaning of the bulletin is concentrated therein, the rest being purely corollary thereto.

Throughout the morning the vicinity of the palace was invaded by seekers after information. A curiously cosmopolitan crowd gathered about the railings awaiting the norning bulletin, and directly after it was posted there was a great scramble to read its contents.

THE PRINCE OF WALES ARRIVES AT THE PALACE.

The Prince of Wales arrived just as the bulletin was being issued. Lord Lister the came directly from the King's apartment after having assisted in drawing up the bulletin, left shortly afterwards, and the more cheerful expression apparent in his face was taken as an indication that he was satisfied with the condition of the patient.

Callers continued to arrive in great numbers throughout the morning. Among the earliest distinguished personages were Lord Salisbury, who rode upon a tricycle, Archduke Francis of Austria and the Duke of Norfolk.

The Duke of Cambridge, who arrived later, had previously presented a set of colors to the Middlesex regiment, addressing which he said the King's illness was a very grave blow and a very trying one. But, he added, he was very glad to be able to speak hopefully of the progress made by his majesty because he had received favorable news from those in attendance upon the King.

Private information from Buckingham palace substantially bears out the official bulletin issued at 10:30 o'clock, except that the King had rather a worse night than was indicated therein. His majesty, however, is resting easier and was sleeping at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

The exodus of the coronation embassies already has commenced. The next two or three days doubtless will see the departure of all but one or two, and these will close up their official establishments and remain in London merely as private persons.

It is said that Queen Alexandra is bearing up well and is much touched with the expressions of sympathy pouring in from all parts of the world. Character of Ailment Improperly Diagnosed -- Probably Abscess of the Stomach True

Special Cable to the Post-Dispetch.

(Copyright, 1902, by the Press Publishing Co.)

LONDON, June 25.—There is suspicion that the real condition of the King is being appressed, even though ordinarily one cannot well imagine a more grave condition han is acknowledged. The King was operated upon by Sir Frederick Treves, the eminent specialist in

A large abscess was evacuated. The operation, which was severe, was pronounced success by the attending surgeons, and a bulletin was issued announcing that the ruler's condition was satisfactory.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent was informed in the lobby of the House of Comons by a member in high standing that he had the information through one of the doctors engaged on the King's case that the character of the ailment had been entirely misdiagnosed, and that it was not perityphlitis, but an abscess of the stomach, which was evacuated, and that if this abscess resulted from a malignant tumor in the stomach nothing could save the King.

So far the doctors have not been able to determine its exact origin. The Post-Dispatch's informant pointed to the discrepancy between the first and ond bulletins in support of his statement, for, in the first, perityphlitis is menioned, while in the second it is only stated that an abscess had been evacuated.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent has secured the following statement from an dominal specialist as eminent as is Sir Frederick Treves;

"If one could believe the official bulletins the case is not hopeless. "The operation therein described is performed with fair success, but the fact that should have been found imperative to perform it while the disease was at an acute stage indicates the presence of very grave symptoms, as otherwise the surgeons would have waited until a period of quiescence had set in. "It is a curious fact that two years ago Treves' daughter died under his own hands from a precisely similar trouble, because he would not take the risk of performing the operation at an acute stage. "In the King's case, apart from this indication of danger, the chief ground of apehension lies in the fact that, as he is a corpulent man, the wound will be large and correspondingly difficult to heal.

"The King has lived very abstemiously. I have seen the menus of luncheons and dinners prepared for him when he visited Miss Keyser's nursing home, as he always

"But, presumably, he overrode their advice in his anxiety to carry out his corona ion engagements.

"The case as disclosed in the bulletins is by no means hopeless, but still it is very requally striking for a young friend of his. They went over to East St. Louis, where they donned these garments and took seats in a four-in-hand which they had sent for them. They were taken on the ferry and from there through the streets of St. Louis. "Everyone thought they were the Duke of Newcastle and the Prince of Wales. "I was talking to Mr. Henry D. Bacon on Walnut street when they passed and we, as well as many others, were deceived."

E. R. NORRIS REMNISCENT.

Edmund R. Norris, president of the Taylor Baking Powder Co., was a guest of the Fair Grounds Association when the prince was here, and shook hands with his royal highness. He speaks of the day thus:

"We were all at the Fair Grounds. The prince came out in a carriage drawn by four horses. Several times he drove around the arena. Then he was taken to the director's room, which was beautifully decorated for the ocasion. Here he was prosented to many persons. I think Julius S. Wine was served, and most of us present shook hands with the prince. He was a fairly: tall silm young fellow with dark

"You saw in him only an amiable and lovable young man, who was to succeed the most virtuous and lovable of sovereigns, Victoria. You, Col. Carvel, were not one to eringe to royalty. Out of respect for the just and lenient sovereign, his mother, you did honor to the Frince. But you did not remind nim, as you might have, that your ancestors fought for the King at Marston Moor, and that your grandfather was once an intimate of Charles James Fox. But what will we say of Mrs. Cluyme, and of a few others whose wealth alone enables them to be directors of the Fair?

"Miss Isabel Cluyme was presented in proper form to his royal highness. Her fother owned a 'peerage' and had been abroad likewise. He made no such bull as the colonel. And while the celebrated conversation of which we have spoken was in progress, Mr. Cluyme stood back and blushed for his countrymen, and smiled apologetically at the few gentlemen of the royal suite who glanced his way.

"His royal highness then proceeded to luncheon, which is described by the most amiable Canadian correspondent who sent to his newspaper an account of it that I cannot forbear to copy. You may believe what he says or not, just as you choose: Mayor, nor the rest of the grave and elderly gentlemen were not blinded by the

AN HISTORIC LUNCHEON.

"So interested was his royal highness in the proceedings that he stayed in the ring three and a half hours witnessing these trotting matches. He was invited to take lunch in a little wooden shanty prepared by the directors, to which he accordingly repaired, but whether he got anything to eat or not I cannot tell. After much trouble he forced his way to the table, which he found surrounded by a lot of ravenous animals. And upon some haif dozen huge dishes were piled slices of beef, mutton and buffalo tongue; beside them were great jugs of lager beer, rolls of bread, plates of a sort of cabbage out into thin shreds, raw, and mixed with vinegar. There was neither salt, spoons nor mustard spoons; the knives the gentlemen were eating with serving in their stead; and by the aid of nature's forks the slices of meat to those who desired to eat.

"While your correspondent stood looking at this spectacle the Duke of Newcastle came in and rat looking, too. He was evidently trying to look democratic, but could not manage it. By his side stood a man urging him to try the lager beer, and cabbage, also, I suppose. Henceforth let the New York aldermen who gave to the Turkis ambassador ham sandwiches and bad sherry rest in peace."

Vincente Rosalli, 16 Years Old Is in St. Louis in the Capacity of Valet to Lt. Llewellyn P. Williamson -- Amazed at the Trolley Cars and Fire Engines.

The latest inhabitant of fashlonable Cab-anne is 16-year-old Vincente Rosali, a Filipino. He came to Cabanne last Friday and all the neighborhood children are talk-ing of him.

Vicente Rosalli is a sure enough Tagalog—born within 40 miles of Manila.

He was fetched to the United Etates by First Lieutenant Liewellyn P. Williamson, who is now stationed at Jefferson Barracks, and whose home is at the southwest corner of Belt and Cates avenue.

Lieut. Williamson lodged the young Filipino at the home of his father, Dr. Williamson, in Cabanne, where the young Tagalog is taking his first lessons in American ways. alog is taking his first lessons in Amer-ican ways.

Saturday he rode on a trolley car and was much amazed. Monday a fire engine dashed past the Williamson home and the Tagalog youth could hardly restrain his enthusiasm. He is eager to learn the cus-toms and language of America, and has already mastered a small vocabulary of English phrases.

for Maidens at Six Furlongs.

By R. D. WAISH.

This afternoon's racing card for the Fair Grounds is made up of four selling races, a purse for maidens, at six furlongs, and a handicap at three-quarters of a mile. The latter race will be the event of the day and will be an enjoyable race from the fact that there are only four horses entered. Lasso is among the number, but she has not run since Oct. Il last year, when she was beaten easily by Ed L. Jake Weber and Grantor at today's distance. Lasso is a very handy mare and may be on edge for this race, but I canot select her until I find out from an actual contest what condition she is in after her long rest.

CONSULT THE DICTIONARY.

In the bulletin concerning King Edward's condition, issued by Sir Francis Knollys and published in the Post-Dispatch extra, the word recrudescence was used. The word is uncommon, and shortly after the extra reached the streets a reader telephoned the Post-Dispatch asking what it meant. He was given a satis-

The word recrudescent is derived from the Latin verb recrudescere, meaning "grow raw again" and in the English has practically the same meaning—"growing raw, sore or painful again."

It signifies, according to Webster, "breaking out again after a temporary abatement." "A recrudescence," therefore, as used by the President is having hot thoughts about the stupidity and ob

From a medical standpoint the word was excellent and precisely described the condition of the royal patient.

There is no more interesting or instructive book than a good dictionary. It should be consulted always when in doubt as to the meaning of words, and a half hour's reading of it every day will bring rich results. It will not only increase your vocabulary and improve your diction, but it will give you invaluable information concerning the origin of words and the growth of language. It will give you the art of speech and the science of language.

A PATHETIC SPECTACLE

With peace prevailing throughout the British Empire and with an entire absence of any political complications connected with the British throne, or of any uncertainty in the succession, the death of King Edward would have no disastrous effect in Great Britain or elsewhere. But the element of personal tragedy would be conspicuous and dramatic in that event. There is something peculiarly pathetic in the spectacle of the stricken King who, having borne all the lesser burdens of royalty for many years and reached the throne at 60 years of age, and having completed preparations for a magnificent coronation spectacle, is cut down at the steps of the throne.

King Edward has always been popular with his people. He possesses the qualities of personal good fellowship and is specially gifted with tact. Although lacking brilliancy, he has proved his possession of common sense; he has made no public mis-takes. The best proof of the sound qualities of his mind and heart is that with all the private follies with which he has been charged he has retained the affection of both his personal friends and the people of England.

But if the King survives his present ordeal there will still re-But if the King survives his present ordeal there will still remain the keen disappointment of the failure of all the elaborate plans for his coronation and the tremendous loss to the nation and especially to London. The coronation was a double celebration—the crowning of a popular King and the return of peace after a bitter war.

That King Edward and his people have the profound sympathy and good wishes of the civilized world is manifest. Among them are men and women who were attended by the leading physicians of Cambridge, Somerville and Lowell.

It is Miss Toppan's gratifying boast that, in no mestance, did the doctors suspect that death was the result of other than natural causes.

Without doubt, even if only a small part of her story is true, Jane Toppan, the nurse, stands s the greatest criminal ever arraigned at the bar in the United States. It is doubtful if, as a subtle poisoner, who successfully duped scores of men and women during her career, she has been equaled by anyone of homicidal mania of modern times.

Certainly, none of the standard medicolegal works contains any parallel case. In no volume in print have the authorities and investigators revealed such an inexplicable multitude of heinous offenses against law and nature.

One queer thing about the woman has been her persistent denials to her old friend and junior counsel, James Stewart Murphy, that she did the murders charged against her.

To her senior counsel and to the experts she has been brutally frank, concealing nothing and telling that which was never suspected nor could have been discovered at this late day.

CUPID HOVERS OVER SNUB FOR BURTON TYPEWRITER DESK

IN FIVE YEARS FIVE STENOGRA PHERS HAVE MARRIED!

FRISCO AUDITOR IN DESPAIR

His Latest Assistant, Miss Mary Forgus, Eloped to St. Charles With J. F. Baumgartner.

For five years a matrimonial halo, or ome other peculiar phenomenon, that eems to excite rebellion against single blessedness, has hovered over the stenogra-pher's desk in the office of the 'Frisco pher's desk in the office of the 'Frisco auditor of passenger accounts, on the top floor of the Commercial building.

For five years five maidens who have been wont to play the typewriter at this desk have falled to appear one bright morning each, and the discovery followed that they had found relief from toil in a masculine helpmate.

The latest deserter is Miss Mary M. Forgus of 1339 Granville place, who eloped to St. Charles with Jacob F. Bumgartner of 1522 Leffingwell avenue, and was married there Saturday by Justice J. W. Bruns. She failed to appear at the office Tuesday and Auditor Heath is in a state of sore perplexity.

Miss Forgus and her filance first went to Clayton, but when she learned that the procuring of a license would insure publicity she refused to take it. So the couple journeyed to St. Charles, where the marriage was consummated with comparative secreey.

riage was consummated with comparative secrecy.

About a year ago Miss Forgus assumed the duties of a young woman who had set her the example of Saturday.

"I can't imagine what there can be about that desk to drive these young ladies to marriage," said Mr. Heath, Tuesday. "I've looked into the matter thoroughly and am very sure no spell has been cast upon it. It must be in the atmosphere, but it doesn't seem to affect the young men to any extent.

"I have had five stenographers in as many years and every one of them has given up the typewriter for some man. It is beyond me—I can't deerstand it. Miss Forgus didn't appear this morning, and it immediately struck me that she had followed in the footsteps of her predecessors. And sure enough it is true.

"I lightend to either thoroughly investigate and endeavor to locate the source of this matrimonial infection or establish a regular bureau where I can conduct a systematic bringing together of congenial life partners."

WASHINGTON, June 25.—In the pres ence of the entire delegation in Congres from Kansas and a committee of citizens of that state, who called at the White House, President Roosevelt openly snubbed United States Senator Burton and refused to accept his proffered hand.

This "turndown" of Senator Burton was premeditated on the President's part, he having said a few days ago that he would have nothing more to do with Burton on account of the speech that senator made against the administration on the reciagainst the administration on the reciprocity question in the conference of Senate Republicans last week.

Senator Burton introduced the Kansans to the chief executive here and one of them formally requested the President to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the admission of Kansas to statehood. The President replied, saying that he would take this invitation under consideration.

Then, as the Kansans were about to leave the White House, the President shook hands with each in turn until he came to Senator Burton. The senator had extended his hand, but the President, after giving film a hard look, turned and walked away.

Burton Was Deeply Embarrassed.

Senator Burton was deeply embarrassed by the President's snub, and the other Kansans were astounded by the incident The President, his friends say, is angry toward Senator Burton. Senator Burton has been informed, it is said, that he need not look for any patronage favors from the White House, as none of the men he has recommended for public office will be appointed by the President.

The warrant was issued by Justice Eugene Hansmann. The boys were taken to Clayton and were afterward released on bond. The twins lived with their mother, Mrs. Ida Crews, at 3958 Kennerly avenue, up to three weeks ago. When their mother went to Chicago to visit a sister the boys were sent to the plantation of their uncle in Henrico, Ark., to nick cotton. They ran away and worked their way from Memphis to St. Louis on a steamboat.

other died several weeks ago from a similar cause.

"The city will have to bury the baby," said Mrs. Donohue, as she grieved over the infant whose life she had hoped to save by taking it to the dispensary. "I am not able to bear the expense."

"My oldest boy, Jimmie, the support of the family, is in the City Hospital, and my daughter. Jessie, is out of regular work. I have a baby I years old to care for, and my husband has left me."

For the two twins, Paul and Peter, Mrs. Donohue said she had been unable to buy the needed food. Condensed milk was the principal article of their diet.

When she left her home with the infant Wednesday, the child seemed slightly better. She rode on a street car to the Dispensary, and did not notice that the child was dead until seated in the chair before the physician. It apparently died during the ride to the Dispensary.

Arrangements were made for the burial of the infant, and medicine will be supplied for the older infant, who is alse sick.

There has been a controversy as to who was responsible for the plank in the platform in the recent Kansas Republican state convention indorsing the President and pleding the state's support to his nomination in 1904.

Senator Burton, it is said, tried to take the credit for the plank, but the President learned from other members of the Kansas delegation in Congress that Burton had nothing to do with it.

Then, when the President heard what Senator Burton said in the reciprocity conference, he said he would have nothing further to do with him.

Not since Grover Cleveland was President has a United States senator been so cuttingly rebuked by the President.

"My Past Is Dead" She Told a Young Man.

KNOWN AS CAROLYNNE GRACE

WELL EDUCATED AND REFINED GIRL WHO COMMITTED SUICIDE.

She Worked Hard to Forget, but th Strain Was Too Great and She Decided to End All Her Troubles.

There is more mystery surrounding the identity of the beautiful young woman who committed suicide in Forest Park Monday afternoon than before some of those who knew her in life came forward and related to the coroner what they knew of her.

That she chose to be known as Carolynne Grace is established. But so far no relative nor anyone who has had more than a passing acquaintance with her has testified.
Wednesday morning at 16 o'clock the witnesses, who probably know more of the life of the unfortunate young woman than all others, appeared at the coroner's office and related to Deputy Coroner Fitzsimmon.

William Stone, a young man who is a watchman for the Wabash Railroad at Forsythe Junction, knew the girl as Carolynne

"Last February," he told Deputy Coroner Fitzsimmons, "I was taking my meals at a restaurant at Delmar and De Paliviere ave nues. It was then that I first met Miss Grace. I was attracted by her intelligent face and gentle manners. I could not con-ceive how a young woman who had had the evident advantages she had would accept so humble a position as waitress in an obscure restaurant.

"I was attracted to the young woman, and sympathized with her, but I could never have been considered as a suitor. I never went out with her, nor did I ever know of her going out with anyone else. "She was extremely reticent. I asked her her living in such a manner, and she replied that the past was a closed chapter with her, and that she did not care to recpen

I have done no wrong, and the harder I work the sasier it is for me to forget. Please never speak of this again to me.

"I never broached the subject again to her nor she to me. I often sat at the table and we talked of one thing and another, but she never let out one word of her past history. That she was an intelligent and cultured woman was evident to any one who spoke to her. She had read much, and could talk entertainingly on various topics.
"That B. of L. F. pin belonged to me. She admired it one day, and asked me to let her shares of stock.

The plaintiffs state that on Feb. 24 the Central Coal and Coke Co. offered $1,375,000 cash and the assumption of all the debta and liabilities of the K. & T. Co. for all the latter's properties, and the offer was accepted, the Union Trust Co. acting as trustee in the consummation of the sale. It is further stated that the capital stock consisted of 25,000 shares valued at $100 cach at par, 63 shares having become the property of the corporation and standing in the name of Treasurer W. P. Heath. They received $35 per share, aggregating $1,340,130, but say they are entitled to $5,34 a share, leaving unaccounted for $3,570. The court is asked to require the defendant to account for that amount and to pay it to the plaintiffs and such stockholders as may come in, at the rate of $1.43 per share in addition to the amount already received by them.

Water. Frank Davis attempted to commit suicid by jumping from the Broadway viaduct into Richland creek at East St. Louis into Richland creek at East St. Louis.

Wednesday morning. He was fished out and his life saved by Policemen Brophy and Dewitt.

The officers, who were on Broadway, noticed that the man was acting suspiciously and followed him as he walked upon the viaduct.

When he was near the center and at the highest point he climbed upon the rail and leaped down before the officers could restrain him.

The creek is almost bank-full and is very deep in places, but Davis struck where it was not deep enough to submerge him.

The officers ran around under the viaduct and down to the edge of the creek. Davis was floundering around trying to get into deeper water. They waded out and dragged him to the shore. He was taken to the police station and locked up. Davis appeared to be demented. He said he leaped to get away from some men who were pursuing him and trying to take his life. He has been working at the packing houses, and boarding in East St. Louis.

VACATION DULLNESS WAS ON THE STOCK MARKET.

YESTERDAY'S PRICES RULED MISSOURI

Reports From London and the Mining Fair Demand for Transit at the Lower Region, With the Approaching Holidays, Make Dealers Listless.

NEW YORK, June 25 .- A dull and absolutely featureless market ruled on Wall etreet today. The strike news and the condition of the English King acted as checks on an early bull disposition.

The approaching summer holidays also acted in keeping down prices. Brokers are tired and anxious for a vacation.
Yesterday's prices generally ruled to the

At the opening the tendency of the London market to rally relieved New York from pressure from that source and prices advanced. Canadian Pacific rose a point and the grangers and southwesterns generally, Manhattan and Reading rose large fractions. Dealings were quite large and well distributed.

Small offerings of various active stocks put the list a shade lower, but there was no decided weakness at any point. Delaware & Hudson rose 2½ points, while Corn Products fell 1% and American Bicycle preferred and St. Paul preferred 1½.

Stocks showed renewed firmness at noon under the leadership of the coalers. Reading rose a full point over last night and Colorado Fuel 2. Bonds were steady at noon.

Ing rose a full point over last night and Colorado Fuel 2. Bonds were steady at noon.

The opening gains were supplemented by further advances, the shorts buying to cover. The Southwesterns were most in demand, but St. Paul and Amalgamated were also bought freely. The principal advances included 1% in St. Louis Southwestern pfd., 1% in American Ice pfd. and St. Joseph & Grand Island 1st pfd., and a p t in Amalgamated. Brooklyn Transit, .t. Paul, Reading, New York Central and Kansas & Texas pfd. A decline of a point in Sugar weakened the entire list. St. Paul, Brooklyn Transit and Amalgamated logither rise and the Southwesterns yielded a fraction. Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Great Northern pfd., Ann Arbor pfd. and North Northern pfd., Supporting orders checked the decline.

Colorado Fuel gained 3 points before profit taking became to depress it 1½. Tennessee Coai made a sympathetic rise of 1½ and Hocking Valley and Northwestern advanced strong. Sugar recovered all its early loss. The list generally was firm, but there was very little trading in railroad stocks. Lackawanna sold at 278, compared with 285 the preceding sale.

The reaction in Colorado Fuel extended to 24. American Ice lost 1½. The general Chemical preferred advanced 1½. The general Chemical preferred advanced 1½. The general market was dull and sluggish and inclined to run off.

Yale. BOSTON, June 25 .- President Roosevelt. who comes to Boston to attend the commencement exercises of his alma mater, Harvard University, arrived here this morning. He was received at the railway station by Gov. Crane. The President's visit had been anticipated and a committee representing the commonwealth including Adjutant-General Dalton and Col. W. H. At the station in Boston the governor greeted the President, and under escort of the First battalion of cavalry, the governor's bodyguard, he was accompanied to his hotel.

The President intended to remain in Boston only oday, but a varied program was before him, including his attendance at Harvard commencement, where a degree was to be conferred; his appearance as a guest at the Harvard alumni dinner; at the banquet of the Spanish war veterans at the Algonquin Club early in the evening, and at the banquet of the International Association of Press Clubs later.

It was the President's plan to depart at midnight for New London, where tomorrow he would witness the annual boat race between Harvard and Yale.

When the President's train reached the Back Bay station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, a crowd was in waiting and he was received with hearty theers as he passed to his carriage, attended by Gov. Crane.

The proposal to use creosoted wood blocks for street paving received a setback Tuesday afternoon, when the Board of Public Improvements found the bids for paving with this material higher than those in which asphalt was specified, and 25 per cent higher than the estimate which had been made for wood paving.

The board took the bids under consideration und probably will decide to reject them. The price asked for wood paving in these bids was nearly 310 per 100 square feet higher than the latest asphalt bids.
